

The power to know what is in your future is yours NOW!
Do your own readings and know the time frame for events in your life.
It's easy and unbelievably accurate.

The Crystal Life Game © is made up of segments, just like an orange.
Each segment represents a certain area of your life.
There are four circles; each represents the timeframe of when things will happen. You read the board from the outside in. The outer circle represents a six month period. The next circle in is three months followed by another circle representing three to four weeks and then the very center circle, which represents right now.
A small bag contains seven crystals. Following the instructions in the enclosed booklet you can let the game begin.
